Die verabschiedete Resolution im Wortlaut:

Statement from the TEAM AGM 2007

While EU leaders in Berlin celebrate the 50 years anniversary for the Treaty of Rome - TEAM holds its annual general meeting in the EU-free Switzerland.

European countries can learn from Switzerland!

Switzerland has found a way to cooperate with other European countries in areas such as trade, education and research. Switzerland has in the same time secured their unique model of direct democracy and placed them self outside EU's custom union and EU's military project. This position gives Switzerland possibilities for lower customs to the world's poor countries and for a more active foreign policy.

Switzerland also has possibilities to go forward on areas as health and environment to the benefit of Switzerland and the world.

And Switzerland is not less European because of the position outside EU.

The TEAM AGM believes that the Swiss model for cooperation can inspire the rest of Europe. Switzerland shows that it is possible to remain democratic and still a cooperating European country.
